The President's Advisory Panel on Federal Tax Reform
New York Avenue NW
Suite 2100
Washington, DC 20220

Ladies and Gentlemen,

The understanding that there are several million people involved with the outcome of The panels recommendations on this Income Tax Reform Issue, makes this opportunity every citizen's responsibility to speak up at this important moment in history.

My remarks are directed to the unlawful acts of the Internal Revenue Service.

There are far to many people serving time in prison for breaking a law that our Government fails to identify,

The Judicial system has not served it's intended purpose, which is to correct the abuses
And lead us through this forest of unending laws and regulations, by following the Road map, the Constitution of the United States of America.

In it's present form, the income tax laws have been, I believe, made and codified in a way that no one person can figure out which codes and regulations apply to himself, or to herself. The accounting industry itself cannot explain most of the Code. The code is misapplied even by those that are supposed to know it, who get paid for their service of preparing income tax forms. Any form of taxation should not be so complex that one must hire another to prepare his tax forms in order to follow the codes. Our dependence on another individual to prepare income tax forms correctly and to be confident that someone else understands the code better than we do, when in fact they do not, is the state of affairs of most of our citizens. In addition to paying the taxes, we are forced to pay even more money (for hopefully correct tax form preparation) to "pay the tax". I believe this process was intentionally created for the purpose of receiving more revenue from the "taxpayers". I believe the tax codes are misapplied. The IRS uses Regulations from Title 27, to enforce Title 26 Codes. I am sure after investigating this issue, we would find that this action is used for all of the other codes and regulations that the Internal Revenue Service handles.

The Secretive workings, the questionable actions, and the intrusive nature of the service taken by the IRS leads all to believe we have more of a Gestapo enforcer attached to our government in the identity of the Internal Revenue Service. Most Americans have this attitude, and nothing good can come of it.

The definition of the words used in each code are intentionally defined in a specialized manner making one presume the codes or regulations mean one thing when in fact the words used mean something else. This change in definition of words, in itself, has caused most of the war between the Citizen and the Internal Revenue Service. One must always look for the meaning of common words to change from statute to statute, and from regulation to regulation in order to understand how to apply the code or regulation. This is extremely deceitful and harmful toward the confidence we have or don't have in our government, much less the IRS. The conduct of the IRS employee who knows that the Rules and Regulations are being misapplied, is reprehensible. Those that are not aware of the misapplication are innocent of the guilt, but are being deceived and used as a tool against the rest of us.

The uneducated are in a state of slavery, and whether they know it or not, they accept their state in life and can see no way to change conditions. If they make an error, in judgment or otherwise, they can expect fines, penalties or jail. The educated have found a way, and have changed their state in life by manipulating their actions and conduct along with the laws that govern their own personal lives, around the laws created by our hungry government spending and other things that are secret and that we can only imagine. They too can expect fines, penalties, or jail IF THEY MAKE A MISTAKE. The "system" ends marriages, ruins business, and keeps us in line, or poverty. Five and one half months of income out of each year is far too much to pay to run a government. I believe there are individuals who are profiting from this tax system and remain silent. Then there are those other individuals who speak out in opposition to the current tax system and the misapplication of the Codes and Regulations, they are treated in a much harsher way and face unimaginable harassment along with the Fines and Penalties, and of course Jail. The morality of the American people is affected by this effort to escape the ever growing tax responsibility. The responsibility for the change in morality is on those who create these oppressive laws. Thus is born a new investment avenue, prison. In creating a new taxing system for our country, we must make sure the Constitution is adhered to.

We must find out why our government is borrowing money when the Constitution has given us the avenue that worked before, and can work again. There is no way our country can survive a multi-trillion dollar debt. We need more accountability from our Representatives, Senators and Secretary of the Treasury; the President and the Internal Revenue Service connected to the Alcohol Tobacco and Firearms Bureau, and the Department of Justice who enforces these unlawful actions.

How much can we endure?. How can we support a war, but not Social Security. How can we cut the taxes of millionaires, penalize with interest and Jail the middle class and the poor?

How is it that even the President of the United States gets to share in a money fund as a reward for turning in "tax cheaters" and so called "Drug Dealers, a fund that has no accountability, works in cash and is taken,("recovered"), from individuals who broke the IRS laws. What incentive is that to make better laws that everyone can follow?

For a system like the Internal Revenue Service, who knows everything about everyone, to have unbridled permission to impose and interfere in every aspect of our lives, to make and enforce its own regulations, and to have secret money to spend is quite a bit out of line, and certainly needs correction. I will probably be sticking my neck out by saying anything to your panel. Yes, I too am fearful of the repercussions from the IRS. I would bet that everyone in the United States has this same feeling. What kind of system would you call that?

I will go one step further by saying that the American People are getting ready for just another charade of "Fixing the Tax System". I personally believe that the IRS is in such a terrible position of being exposed in their misapplication of the Codes and Regulations that it is in a hurry to do a magic trick and disappear to reappear as "fixed".

MARZELLA PORATH

Follow the Constitution, and save our Country, please.

How many millions of words do we need to describe a constitutional tax system.?

Answer: Not very many!.

Lets stop sending people to jail, our country is becoming a prison system, and we are a Joke to many other countries when we say we advocate Freedom. Our own laws are creating this situation.

Very Sincerely yours,
